Collaboration for sustainable open access publishing in Africa

Femi Arogundade¹, Innocent Azilan¹, Abigail Essel¹, Iryna Kuchma², Susan Murray³, Ivy Mutambanengwe³, Omo Oaiya¹, Milica Ševkušić²

¹WACREN, ²EIFL, ³AJOL

The poster addresses the economic and financial responsibilities for sustaining Diamond Open Access (OA) publishing, as well as political support, focusing on authority, patronage, and legitimacy. It explores how we can strengthen the Diamond OA landscape together.

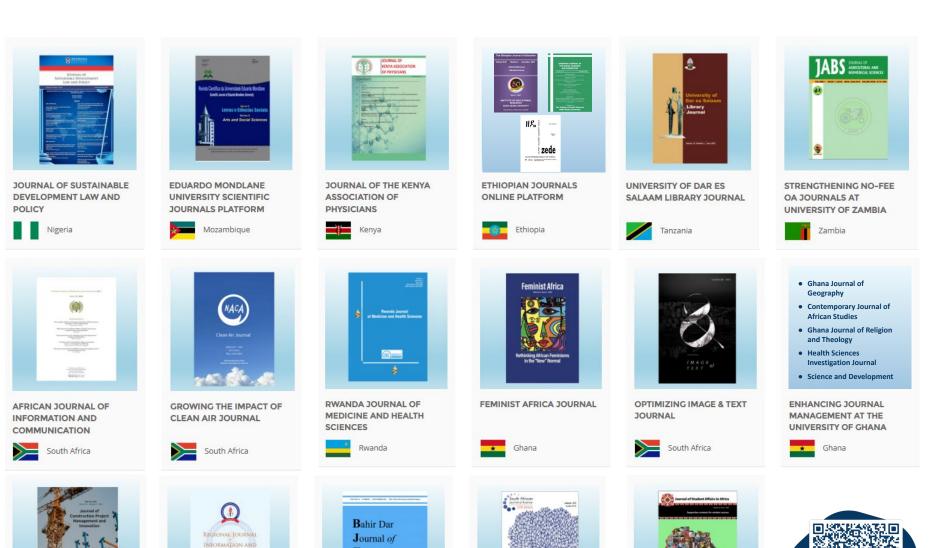

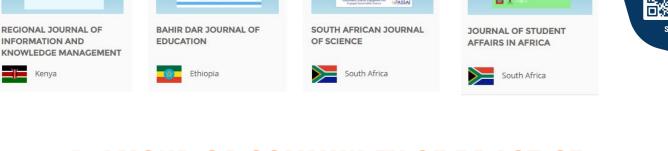

PARTICIPATORY FUNDING

Two calls for proposal to strengthen the quality and sustainability of African Diamond OA publishing

17 projects supported in the first call (2024)

2025 Funding call is currently open

INFORMATION AND

CONSTRUCTION PROJECT

MANAGEMENT AND

DIAMOND OA COMMUNITY OF PRACTICE

357 members and growing

Guidelines, policy templates and sustainability models for Diamond OA journal publishing

Reusing and building upon DIAMAS project results

EIFL, AJOL and WACREN, with support from Wellcome, are running a three-year project (2023–2026) to empower African Diamond OA community with funding and cost-efficient, open, public, shared infrastructures.

AJOL is fast-tracking Diamond OA journal applications: 231 Diamond OA journals on AJOL – over 200% increase since the project start

WACREN's experiments with Publish, Review, Curate Diamond OA publishing

ENTIVES AND REWARDS

Sharing good practices on academic rewards for contributions of editors and peer reviewers – see ASSAf Statement on the Recognition of the Work of Editors and Peer Reviewers of Academic Journals and Books in South Africa

